BIG GUNS PLAYING ROLE

Planes Roar Over Battle
Area In Never Ending
Protective ScreenUNITED NATIONS HEAD-QUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA,
July 15—Battle-seasoned Allied jungle fighters, backed by powerful field artillery attacks, closed in around the Japanese garrison at Mubo, on the Salamaua line in northeastern New Guinea today in a sudden new thrust which carried them deep into the enemy positions.The latest Allied drive was announced in a special communique issued at headquarters of Gen.
Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in the Southwest Pacific."Our troops are closing in on the Mubo bastion of the Salamaua line
for decisive action," the bulletin stated tersely.While the ground patrols hacked their way forward behind a rolling artillery barrage, Allied planes roared overhead in a never-ending protective screen.

Japs Wiped Out

Meantime, it was disclosed that a Jap force numbering about 200 centered on Cape Dinga and bypassed by Allied troops in their drive to Nassau Bay, had been cleaned up by crack patrols in the area.MacArthur's New Guinea forces have been exerting great pressure against four Japanese strongpoints in the Mubo salient. These are Observance Hill, already captured, Green's Hill, "The Pimple," and Woody Island. Operations against these points have been underway
the last week with continuous air support providing tremendous backing for patrol attacks.Field artillery also has been swung into position for the "decisive action" MacArthur reports developing.The farthest Allied advance in this area has reached Bobdubi,
where American and Australian forces have established a blockade of the jungle trail to halt Jap supplies moving up to the "Pimple" and Woody Island sectors.It was reported that there were still Jap forces between Allied patrols and main enemy positions near Mubo.

Heavy Assaults

Today's noon communique reported continued heavy assaults on Japanese bases in the South and Southwest Pacific all the way from the Netherlands East Indies to the Solomons.The communique made no mention of the fighting for Munda,
hard-pressed enemy key air base
on New Georgia island in the Solomons, probably because only fragmentary reports of widely separated patrol actions reached headquarters.

President ToldWASHINGTON, July 15—Drafting of Rubber Director William M. Jeffers as liquid and solid fuels czar to supplant Harold L. Ickes was recommended to President Roosevelt today by Sen. Edwin C.
Johnson (D) Colo.Johnson disclosed that he had written Mr. Roosevelt suggesting that the change be made after further congressional demands arose for action to relieve the east coast gasoline shortage and as War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes undertook a new investigation of the nation's petroleum situation."Distribution is the real problem and Mr. Jeffers is a practical railroad transportation expert," Johnson declared in sponsoring the two-folded rubber director for the coal-oil-gas authority."The handling of these fuels is a great big transportation job and little else."Such a shift of the Union Pacific railroad head who was drafted into the rubber directorship last Fall would relieve Interior Secretary - Petroleum Administrator
Ickes of his control as fuels administrator.In support of his recommendation Johnson charged that the nation, caught in a gasoline-oil jam that has aroused congress to the point of carrying its fight direct to the White House, is not getting more than 50 percent efficiency in the operation of oil tank cars.Failure to expedite shipments and delayed "turn-around" of tank cars, he said, mark the present
fuel transportation situation.The problem, Johnson declared, calls for a veteran transportation
man. Jeffers probably would not want the post, he added, the Nebraska rail executive could bring the same order into the fuels administration that he injected into the muddled rubber production picture months ago.

DOING WORK OF
1,500 STRIKERSBOSTON, July 15—Soldier labor battalions of the Boston army base moved on to the docks today to move critical war cargo if 1500 striking longshoremen—virtually the entire port of Boston force—failed to heed instructions from their national union to return to work.The soldiers, trained to handle cargoes, took the strikers' places
yesterday and loaded ships for war zones when the longshoremen walked out in protest over delays in wage payments.An officer at the army base said the Army was determined to restore the movement of cargo and was an "innocent bystander"
to the actual dispute.State labor officials, who arranged for a meeting of representatives of the Longshoremen's Union, AFL, and dock officials, said the dispute was caused by delays in wage payments. Employers asserted the delays were caused by a shortage of office
help in computing pay-as-you-go taxes.The strikers were also incensed, it was said, at discontinuance of paying advances on wages.Joseph Ryan, New York head of the Longshoremen's Union, wired local union officials and strikers
that the strike could not be tolerated.

gomery came along."Di Davet, 45 years old, with watery blue eyes, was haggard and drawn. Preney, 45, was smiling and anxious to tell his story. He said he was very upset that Benito Mussolini did not send the Italian fleet to Sicily, and blamed the Luftwaffe for not "picking up" the Allied invasion armada.He and the general were just rising from dinner when the news came Saturday night that British paratroopers were landing."We thought it was just a sabo-

OR ALIVE NOW
$64 QUESTIONLONDON, July 15—The question of whether Nazi Gen. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, former commander of the now defunct Afrika Korps, is dead or alive was the subject of much speculation
in London today.Following yesterday's unconfirmed report from Stockholm that the German leader and five aides were shot down by Allied fighters as Rommel flew in a giant transport to assume command of enemy forces in Sicily, information reached London that Rommel still is in France.According to this report, the marshal is hospitalized at a French city, presumably Aix-les-Bains. A Berne dispatch, however, said that when Rommel received word of the Allied invasion of Sicily, he left the hospital and drove hurriedly to Lyons.Meanwhile, the Exchange Telegraph reported in a Zurich dispatch that Swiss spokesmen,
while refusing comment on the rumor spreading in Germany that Rommel actually was killed off Sicily, pointed out that the entire Axis forces in Sicily now are under Italian command.ONE MAN'S how long, when he is leaving, when he is returning, the approximate starting point of his trip, the read-

and the number of gallons in the

Confusion, Compromise
Awaited At CapitalWASHINGTON, July 15—Prentiss Brown's already com-

were further complicated today
by serious charges of his former deputy that a strong clique in the OPA is seeking to "remake the American economy" under the guise of war measures.The charges were made by Lou R. Maxon, the noted Detroit advertising executive who resign-ministrator. Maxon announced his resignation in a five-page blast at "professional minds" and

"young lawyers" on the OPA payroll, who, he asserted, had weakened the agency with "confusion, indecision, compromise, and miles of legalistic red tape."It was expected that Brown would reply to the charges later
today when he presides at a news conference—his third since taking over Leon Henderson's duties early this year.Maxon did not confine his charges to OPA administration and policy, but struck a blow at the government itself, when he asserted that the much-discussed
"roll back" of food prices was
"nothing more than an empty
promise.""The job of controlling prices
and rationing scarce commodities under the tremendous stress of global war is vast enough without the infusion of any efforts to remake the American economy at the same time," Maxon declared."OPA needs at once a drastic reorganization, a strong, clear direction, and a liberal transfor-

a second line to be built just north of the present line. The new one will be a 20-inch gasoline carrier running from Beaumont, Texas, to the east coast. The present line built to move 300,000 gallons of crude oil every 24 hours to the eastern seaboard runs from Long-and thence east to Bayonne, N. J.The Foreman company, which

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, July 15—Another naval bombardment of Japanese positions on Kiska island in the Aleutians was announced today by the navy. It was the fourth attack by American warships so far this month.
The latest bombardment was carried out early yesterday
by a light surface unit which blasted enemy positions in Gertrude cove.By International News Service Circleville, American, Canadian
and British troops, advancing steadily on all sectors of Sicily
with no increase in their astonishingly small casualty list, swept to the gateway of Catania today.
Fall of that great city, where a population of 252,000 eagerly awaits liberation from their Fascist
overlords, became imminent
when British forces captured Mel-lilli, a strategic road point in the interior of Sicily, making possible
a flanking movement against Ca-tania coincident with the coastal drive.(Editor's Note: An NBC correspondent aboard a British cruiser in the Ionian sea reported Allied capture of Lentini and Carlinetti on the road to Catania and also told of the first heavy naval bombardment of Catania itself by an Allied squadron. Defenders of the town attempted to swing a giant train of railway guns into action
but the mobile artillery was forced to withdraw by Allied sea-fire.)

Rapid Advance

Latest official word said the main British thrust along the east coast, in which American units
are now revealed to be participating, had reached a point 15 miles from Catania. The spearhead thrust into the town of Bruso in what Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower termed advances of "considerable extent."German forces at dawn attacked an isolated British brigade holding part of Augusta yesterday, but by midday the situation had been restored.Despite difficult mountainous territory, the whole British line moved forward some six or seven miles, while American units operating northwest of Ragusa captured valuable ground and another important airfield, one of seven more air bases scooped up within the last 24 hours by the Allies.Messina meanwhile was hit by

Lockbourne Board To Probe Fortress Crash Fatal To Nine Flyers

An army board of inquiry prepared to leave Lockbourne army air base Thursday to investigate the crash of a Flying Fortress in Arizona. The crash was fatal to nine Lockbourne-based airmen.

Wreckage hunted since early March was located Wednesday 24 miles southwest of Springerville, Arizona.

Captain Joseph Schroeder, Lockbourne public relations officer, said the Fortress left Lockbourne March 1 on a routine cross country flight. It refueled in Portland, Oregon, on March 3 and took off for Las Vegas, New Mexico.

GAS PETITIONS MUST BE SENT TO LOCAL BOARD

Automobile and motorcycle owners applying for renewals of their "A" and "D" gasoline coupon books should make certain that their applications are mailed to the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board and nowhere else. The applications should be mailed at once, and even if mailed at this late date there is possibility that all applications will not be processed by July 21, the date present ration books expire.

The local board has started to mail out its new coupon books, but still has several thousand more to process.

The warning to mail applications to the Pickaway county office was voiced by George D. McDowell, ration board chairman, after it was revealed that a considerable number of applications, together with motorists' inspection records are being sent to the national OPA office in Washington, D. C.

"Since ration books can only be issued by local rationing boards, such applications must be returned by the Washington office to the sender, causing him delay and probable inconvenience in getting his new gasoline rations," Mr. McDowell said.

Applications available at local filling stations and other designated places should be mailed to the local War Price and Rationing Board together with the back cover of the applicant's present "A" or "D" book and the tire inspection record showing that proper tire inspections have been made.

The board is making every effort, Mr. McDowell said, to have all the new basic "A" and "D" ration books mailed to car and motorcycle owners by July 21.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

David Orr, 1943 graduate of Circleville high school, has passed the army air corps examination at Lockbourne air base and expects to be assigned to aviation training when he is inducted with the July contingent of Pickaway county draftees. Orr is a son of Mrs. Howard Orr, South Court street.

Sergeant Thomas F. Brown, son of Mrs. Mary Brown, Maplewood avenue, returned Thursday to his station at Barksdale field, La., after a 17-day furlough.

Lieutenant Colonel David H. Thomas, his wife and sons, David Jr. and Colin, were recent visitors with friends and relatives in Kingston. The Thomas family was enroute from Greenville, South Carolina, to Toledo.

bases in a never-ending assault which continued through the day and night. And in the Tyrrhenian, one enemy tanker was blown up, a second left in flames and a merchantman was last seen in a sinking condition. Other squadrons of planes roared over the island, striking at enemy installations and communication lines.

Americans Busy

At Comiso, one of the most important airfields on the island, American troops today were busy salvaging equipment left behind by the Axis forces as they fled before the Doughboys yesterday. Many planes were found in dispersal areas, some in useable condition although many had been ruined by Allied aerial assaults on the field. Still other units were engaged in similar salvage work at the Ponte Olivo field, also captured yesterday as the Allies pushed their line northwestward out of the coastal region.

Unofficial observers blamed a severe lack of planes for the Luftwaffe's failure to combat the Allied drive through Sicily. These informed sources estimated that in the entire Mediterranean theater the Germans have fewer than 1,500 warplanes, divided among bases in Italy, Sicily, Greece, Crete, the Balkans and Southern France.

Gen. Sir Bernard Law Montgomery, commander of the British Eighth Army, however, warned against expectations of an easy victory as he pointed out that Germany's self-confidence has not yet been shattered despite recent Allied successes. The mass of Germans, he declared, still believe that their high command will bring forth a victory of some sort. Only the Nazi leaders now are awake to the possibility of total defeat, Montgomery added.

Reds Attacking

In Russia, a Moscow dispatch to Reuters reported that the battle at the Kursk salient has taken a dramatic turn with counterattacking Soviet units pushing the Nazis out of several strategically important localities.

In the Orel sector, at the northern end of the Kursk salient, the Russians were pressing the initiative while the Germans were attacking only in the Belgorod area in the south, where heavy fighting continued to rage.

In the western European air war, Britain-based RAF fighter planes and fighter-bombers ranged extensively over Axis-held territory during the night and this morning, lashing at communication lines.

YOUNGSTERS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, July 15—Gene Garrett, of San Diego, Calif., and Howe Atwater, a game youngster from Chicago, advanced to the semi-finals and today will meet the Texas lads, Ed Ray and Bernard Barten, in the annual eastern junior singles tennis tournament held at the West Side Tennis club in Forest Hills.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

No More Brass

On land or at sea our fighting men do their many chores by the sound of a bugle. All sorts of uncomplimentary epithets are used to designate the bugler, but nobody has yet been able to provide a satisfactory substitute for a bugle although recordings are used at some permanent bases.

Aboard ship the men fall in at the order of "Pipe muster." On land the bugler sounds "Assembly!" But no matter where the bugle is used thousands upon thousands of them must be bought and paid for out of the money we are investing in War Bonds.

MEN QUIT JOBS WHEN WOMAN REPLACES MALE

CANTON, July 15—A.T. Pinkney, department of labor conciliator, today continued negotiations for settlement of the walkout involving 350 men at the Timken Roller Bearing Company's steel mill yesterday.

Because a woman worker replaced a male recorder in the steel mill, the men were idle in the plant today protesting the action.

A spokesman for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) union said the men protested when a change was made in the veteran recorder's schedule in compliance with 48-hour week and he was sent home.

The union official also said that the schedule change had not been approved by the unit, which is a company-union contract requirement.

and until there is a willingness to simplify price control and rationing as far as is consistent with winning the war, there is nothing more that I can do in OPA."

Attacking the anti-business bloc in the price agency, Maxon declared:

"There is a strong clique in OPA who believe that the government should manufacture and distribute all commodities. Call them left wingers, or new thinkers or Tugwellists or whatever you will, they are actively at work in OPA. They are using the war as a means of furthering their reform ideas and will continue to use honest men in OPA as a front for their efforts."

Maxon also had scathing words for "theorists" who, he declared, had been placed in key OPA jobs.

quarters. However, the final assault on Munda may well be under way, observers pointed out.

Besides the continued pounding of enemy bases over a wide arc north of Australia, Allied headquarters disclosed new losses inflicted on the Japs at sea. Medium bombers destroyed two large enemy barges in Hunda cove, Kolombangara island, north of New Georgia, and a Jap cargo vessel in Beagle channel, at Vella Levella, also in the Solomons.

Heavy bombers of the South Pacific forces assaulted Jap air bases in the Bougainville island area, further crippling the enemy's ability to strike back at American invasion forces on New Georgia, Rendova and nearby islands.

In the Buin area, fires visible for 50 miles were kindled by bombs hurled down on the Ballale air-drome. Numerous fires also were started at the nearby Kahili flying field. The Buin drome was heavily attacked at night with unobserved results.

Bombers Active

The heaviest assaults by bombers of Gen. MacArthur's command were directed at Timor island bases west of New Guinea. The town of Kupang, important enemy supply center, was blasted by heavy bombers which set off large explosions and caused numerous fires which also could be seen at a distance of 50 miles. Medium bombers attacked the Lautem and Cape Chater airdromes, causing numerous fires and explosions.

Allied fighter planes on patrol over the Japanese base at Salamaua, New Guinea, encountered and shot down a flight of three dive-bombers apparently en route to attack Allied ground patrols menacing the enemy stronghold. One of the Allied fighter planes was lost, but its pilot was saved.

Attack planes, supporting Allied ground forces, swooped low to bomb and strafe enemy positions at Orodubi, near Salamaua.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

HOW LONG?

It was a cheerful thing to find President Roosevelt the other day telling the world that, with the invasion of Sicily, the war had entered its final phase—that it was "the beginning of the end." And broadly speaking, that could be accepted as truth. But a good deal depends on the way such a truth is interpreted.

As a matter of fact, the President himself qualified his statement. His words really were, "I think you can almost say." There will be many a battle fought, in Europe and the Orient, before defenders of civilization can die normally at home and be laid to rest with their own people. And for many years afterward there must be Americans abroad, garrisoning the crossroads and war-breeding places, to save mankind from another Armageddon.

MOVING MILLIONS

POPULATION is being shifted nowadays to a remarkable degree. Besides the millions going into the armed forces, industry draws great numbers from rural areas to the cities. A survey indicates that nearly 6,000,000 people have already been lost from country to city since this war began. And some observers think such shifts may be permanent.

The assumption, though, may be premature. One strong trend today, in the investment field, is the purchase of rural property by city residents. Presumably many of the investors want to live on that property. It should be remembered, too, that communication between city and country, during normal times, grows steadily better, and rural life rapidly acquires city improvements and comforts. It may be the city, rather than the country, that will need sympathy a generation from now.

NAVAL HEROES

A famous American naval hero is brought to mind again by the concluding volume, just published, of Charles L. Lewis' life of Admiral Farragut.

Farragut was the one Northern military chieftain appointed at the start of the Civil War who was good enough to hold his post throughout. On land there was a succession of unsatisfactory commanders: McDowell, McClellan, Burnside, Pope, Hooker and, the best of them, Meade. At long last came Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, not one of whom was considered for high command when the war started. Farragut, on the other hand, was in office at the beginning, and was good enough to hold his post to the very end.

Best remembered for his well-known but still thrilling order at the battle of Mobile Bay, "Damn the torpedoes! Full steam ahead!" Farragut has even since been an inspiration to the American navy. Fortunately all indications are that in men like

CLASSICAL WARFARE

WASHINGTON—A new phrase has developed among War Department strategists in mapping out operations in Sicily and the Mediterranean. It is "classical warfare."

The Army Air Forces have coined the phrase in their desire to throw cold water on the "classical" foot-soldier methods of the older services of the Army, and to push ahead with all-out air attacks. Classical warfare, they say, is like studying Greek and Latin in a day when we need Spanish, Russian and French.

This debate began before the landing in Sicily, and continues now regarding future possible operations in Sardinia, Corsica and Italy itself.

WANT TO MOVE FAST

The method used in invading Sicily was a compromise among land, air and naval elements, resulting in the "peculiar amphibious operations" Churchill talked about. But the Air Forces believe they can move even faster and more effectively in conquering other parts of Italy if they don't have to be tied down by classical warfare.

For instance, with bases in Sicily, Army airmen think they can so pulverize the industrial plants of northern Italy that they can bomb that country out of the war without waiting for huge landing operations to come up and help them.

Then with air bases in northern Italy, they are within range of the hidden synthetic gasoline and rubber factories which Hitler has moved into Austria and Czechoslovakia. Thus, step by step, the air forces believe they can knock out the enemy without resorting to classical warfare.

AXIS PLANES KNOCKED OUT

Here is one significant thing Army airmen point to. During the ten days just before we invaded Sicily the Nazis had been sending a lot of new planes into Sicily and southern Italy.

But after one day of fresh Axis air strength, which was heavily damaged by U. S. planes, there followed a day or two of weak resistance. In other words, Axis planes were knocked out and had to wait for reinforcements. These reinforcements kept coming up until about two days before the invasion, after which Axis air resistance was light.

COX THE FOX

The Cox Committee investigating the Federal Communications Commission, having set one record for violating the American spirit of fair play, now is out to beat its own record.

First, its chairman, Representative Eugene Cox of Georgia, having been accused of illegally taking a $2,500 lobbying fee, is now placed in the unique position of sitting in judgment on his accusers—the FCC.

The Georgia Congressman at one time had so many relatives on the government payroll that the total take of himself and family was $56,500. This is nearly four times greater than the salary of the Vice President, nearly three times the salary of Chief Justice Stone. Nevertheless, when the FCC sent the matter of Cox's alleged lobbying fee to the Justice Department for criminal prosecution, Cox flew into a tantrum.

Spanish Government Flops | Franco No Longer Ace Up
Its Sympathies to Allies | Axis Sleeve, Says Writer

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—The Axis press realizes now that Spain's government has floundered entirely over to sympathy with the United Nations. The Spanish people generally have been, all along, first-rate democrats, or even farther to the leftward. Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Madrid's "El Caudillo," Spanish equivalent to "Der Fuehrer" or "Il Duce," started off, however, as a Falangist, Spain's equivalent to a Nazi or a Fascist.

First indications of his change in policy arrived to the accompaniment of news that he is maneuvering for a restoration of his country's former monarchy, under Prince Juan of Bourbon, third son of the late, and deposed, King Alfonso, in exile at present in Switzerland.

The prince himself has a reputation as a democrat. This seems queer, in the case of a descendant of the ultra-royal Bourbon family. Nevertheless, it is a fact that, informed of Generalissimo Franco's overtures, he promptly announced that he would not consider them on any basis that made him governmentally inferior to El Caudillo.

Maybe Juan simply had been reading the signs of the times. Or maybe he had learned a lesson from his own father's dethronement. Anyway, in response to hints from the previously pro-Axis generalissimo, he took a distinctly anti-Axis attitude.

And the point is that the generalissimo promptly fell for it. Franco appears willing to accept Juan on the latter's terms, in a subordinate position.

This, naturally, makes the Axis publicity managers hot under the collar.

And it is, indeed, a vicious jab at them—not so much militarily, but as an item of morale, which figures quite a lot for the immediate present.

It is like a split in the near-Axis ranks, though not in the intimate ones. Spain, though, is a geographic spot of considerable material advantage in the present conflict. It is nicely situated as the basis for a thrust into Axis territory (through France) and into Axis waters (by way of the Mediterranean).

Now, how did Caudillo Franco happen to get cold feet, as he did, versus the Axis powers?

Well, in Spain itself popular sentiment is, as said above, democratic. The generalissimo squeaked by with a narrow majority.

Franco thought Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini would win in a walk. Adolf has not done it. Benito has been a much worse fizzle. Adolf is hated as a tyrant. Benito is despised as an extremely sour lemon.

The conquered countries are all in rebellion.

Next thing? Latin America!

We have this side of the world sewed up. It includes Spanish—and Portuguese—(if you so group them) America.

Our New-Worldlings are virtually all pro-United States.

Of course, Argentina has been too neutral to suit Washington and governments of other United Nations.

Generally speaking, though, Latin America has been too conspicuously anti-Axis not to have impressed a Spanish dictator, like Caudillo Franco. Obviously, he arrived finally at the conclusion that his bread was buttered more on the side of the democracies than that of the totalitarians. The same idea might have occurred to Duce Mussolini, if he had thought about it earlier, but El Caudillo was more deliberately judicious.

Franco has not yet had quite the nerve to come out wholeheartedly against the Nazis, but he has come close enough to it to promise a complete switch democracy-ward as soon as he is certain of the war's impending outcome.

Naturally, Fuehrer Hitler's mouthpieces are giving him hades.

The theme is that Adolf helped HIM when Franco was having his troubles with the Spanish republicans; now he is lukewarm as it is imaginable toward the Axis. At that, it is not ingratitude. It is self-interest. Franco has decided that the Axis is licked, and is anxious to get in—as safely as he can—under cover.

War Is Ally of TB

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WAR, I AM afraid, teaches few useful lessons. But I think it is undoubtedly true that World War I taught us a great deal about tuberculosis.

In the first place few even of the most careful and pessimistic students of the subject had any idea of the amount of latent, semi-active tuberculosis in the general population. We had, it is true, few reliable methods of detecting tuberculosis in the early stages during the examination of recruits at that time. But the strenuous and arduous physical exercises which soldiers have to go through rapidly broke down draftsmen who had been passed by the examining boards and we found, and still have evidence, in our military hospitals of the tremendous extent of unsuspected tuberculosis in the community.

The second thing we learned was that the methods of examination ordinarily employed were inadequate to detect the early or latent case. These methods were primarily the use of the stethoscope, percussion, and the examination of the sputum for tubercle bacilli.

Not Revealed by Stethoscope
Many soldiers were passed by the examining boards simply because the involvement of the lungs lay too deep to be revealed by the stethoscope and since then we have learned the astonishing fact that it is easier to recover tubercle bacilli from the stomach contents than from the sputum.

In the years that have passed the great advance in diagnosis has been the use of the X-ray, and all the draftees in the present army have been examined by this method. Roughly, 99 per cent of those who have any trace of tuberculosis are detected and returned home for treatment. I have seen one or two cases in army hospitals of draftees who have broken down under the discipline of drill, but this is nothing compared to the number we had in World War I. Since early detection and early treatment are the key to cure, and cure under these circumstances is possible, the situation is greatly improved from a practical standpoint.

Another aspect of tuberculosis in war is the possibility of an increase in tuberculosis all over the world. For the 50 years up to 1917 there had been a steady decline in the incidence of tuberculosis. In Great Britain tuberculosis increased 6 per cent in the first year of World War I, and 10 per cent in the second. From 1920 to 1937 the incidence of tuberculosis and the death rate in all civilized countries continued its downward trend. But a number of factors are operating to put it on the upgrade again. One is the universal breakdown in food supplies.

Tuberculosis May Increase
Tuberculosis is a disease of lack of nutrition. In the Americas and in Great Britain this cause will probably not operate, but heaven only knows what will happen to the peoples on the continent of Europe. Another factor is the crowding and close personal contact in air raid shelters and also in periods of population movement and distress.

Eternal vigilance is the price of freedom from tuberculosis. The decline of the disease in the last century has tended in some quarters to a false sense of security. But as a Canadian writer says, "A disease that kills nearly 6,000 of the population, leaves at least 30,000 incapacitated, and costs the country directly at least $8,000,000 annually, is still a formidable enemy and a major health problem."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. K. B.: Please write about tachycardia, the cause, and cure, etc. If the pulse goes up to 120 and it can be returned to normal by pressure on the neck, what does this mean?

Answer: Tachycardia is simply a symptom. It means rapid pulse. There is the tachycardia of fear, of goiter, of heart disease, etc. Pressure on the carotid sinus in the neck sometimes stops it. When this occurs we assume the tachycardia was caused by functional disturbance of the carotid sinus.

fluenza. Primarily, there seems to be a condition of doubt, confusion, perplexity. Perhaps personal appeal or social influence or intervention may be most powerful in unraveling obscure or threatening situations.

Refrain from impulsive, reckless or erratic moves, lest these estrange and defeat cherished aims or alienate those of sentimental attachment.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of unusual or peculiar situations, calling for much prudence, discretion and direct action in order to circumvent deep laid plans and schemes. While this menace may effect the business or professional associations they are likely to have unhappy and regrettable reactions on the intimate affiliations. There may be estrangements or separations, unless clever grasp and defeat of pernicious forces be exerted.

A child born on this day may be sensitive, perhaps needy and self-conscious to its detriment, causing it sorrow and separation, probably through sinister undercurrents. Its social and sympathetic appeal may assist it to ultimate good fortune and favor.

Leave My Heart Alone

ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS
KAREN BELL, wealthy and lovely, has been the sweetheart of another member of her rich Florida set, PAUL WYATT, since childhood. However, she surprisingly encounters a young stranger, obviously not of her social standing, and learns that he is MARTIN HALIDAY.

YESTERDAY: Karen and her father are about to say something to each other.

CHAPTER SIX

IN HER father's study, with its book-lined shelves reaching clear to the huge beamed ceiling, Karen began what she had to say to him with a childish question she and Denise always had used when they had taken their small troubles and problems to him. "If I ask you something, will you tell me true?"

And Jim Bell responded with the answer he always had had ready for his motherless daughters. "Truer than true, my dear." It was part of the bond between them, although what he still could not understand was how such a bond could have failed with Denise, that he would always give the truth, whether it be difficult or not. But maybe he was the one who had failed with Denise, he thought now, looking into his younger daughter's wide blue eyes; maybe he had spared her the truth he would not have lost her. He hoped he could do better with Karen. He must hold her love, at no matter what cost.

"Do you want me to marry Paul?" Karen put her question simply. Yet, in a way, it was a roundabout question; it did not state what her heart wanted or dictated; it asked what was in his mind.

"Well, now, chickadee," Jim tilted his swivel chair, smiling up at her. How lovely she was, how untouched, how young. He knew that she was growing up and considered herself, no doubt, a very sophisticated young modern. "I can't say that I WANT you to marry anyone."

"You don't want me to be an old maid, do you, or one of these maniac career women that you claim are much more frustrated and objectionable?"

"I do not," Her father bit off the end of his cigar. He pushed back the box on his wide, old-fashioned desk. Marriage was best for a woman, the only fulfillment. The right kind of marriage, of course. He would rather have seen Denise following any career—almost he rather would have seen her dead—than the marriage she had made. Now, with the news contained in that cable, he knew he ought to relinquish some of the old, cold bitterness. "I want you to be happy," he said now to this youngest daughter. Yes, and he meant it. He wanted her to have happiness, at no matter what cost, too. "There is no one I'd rather see you married to than Paul," he added further, answering her simple question finally and as directly as she had put it.

Karen had known that that was what his answer would be. It did indeed make everything final. But that was what she had decided she wanted, too, wasn't it? "Paul wants us to announce our engagement at the Festival. He said he already had talked it over with you, Jim, so you needn't sit there, puffing away at your inevitable cigar, and pretend you are surprised. He wants me to set a date for this winter. He seems anxious, and he said he thought you'd like it that way, too, to have everything settled."

"So I gathered." Her father carefully dumped ashes into a convenient silver tray. "It's only natural for a young man to feel that way. If I agreed with Paul it is only because everything, as you phrase it, my dear, is so unsettled in this mad world today. But the point is, how about you? Are you as eager as your young man? Are you as sure of your heart, chickadee? You must not be rushed into anything, least of all into marriage, by Paul or by me, unless there is not one iota of doubt in you, yourself."

"I'm sure there isn't," Karen said, believing that her answer was "truer than true," too. She believed that any doubts she had were now dispelled. She supposed she was as sure as any one ever could be.

"Then that's that." Her father's smile broadened, so that only now he allowed her to see how much her answer pleased him, how much he had hoped that that was what it would be. "Paul is a fine young man. He comes from a fine stock. He will do his best to make you happy, and he won't take you away from me. That may be a selfish thought," he added, "but it is a natural one for a father to have."

Especially for Jim Bell, who had one daughter taken, not just out of his life, but out of his heart. For he knew that if he had never been able to forgive Denise she had never forgiven him, either. Unless now—in the cablegram . . . but he must not count on too much yet. He must just be thankful and hopeful, which was enough for the present.

"No one on earth could take me away from you," Karen assured him. She knew that he was thinking about Denise, with the old pain. So that she made her words a solemn and ardent vow. Then to remove the solemnity she tacked on gayly, "Not a dozen husbands, darling, although I hope I shan't have that many."

"One should be sufficient," her father agreed smilingly, yet seriously, too, for he was old-fashioned in that as well as a number of other things. He did not believe in divorce. No, not even for Denise, although he feared her marriage had turned out as badly as he had known it was bound to do.

"I told Paul I couldn't possibly get ready until after the holidays," Karen said. That would give her only two or three months, and how they would fly! "Not that I want a lot of fuss; it doesn't seem appropriate somehow with all the suffering and sorrow overseas, and Paul seems so afraid we're being dragged in before the year is over, although I hope he's mistaken. And I just want you to make the announcement yourself, to our friends and guests, at the Festival. Is that all right, Jim?"

"I think that sounds very much all right," her father assured her.

HAGG TRAINING FOR MILE RUN ON WEST COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15—

With the happy ending of "I won't—oh yes you will" battle between the visiting Swedish fireman and local A. U. officials, the deep silence along the San Francisco track front was broken today only by the soft tread of Gunder Hagg trotting over the Olympic Club's lakeside path.

It took a lot of persuasion in several languages, including the Scandinavian, to get the fleet Swede to show in the mile run next Saturday. When told in Swedish that the Army Air Force fund might suffer, he consented. Then, too, the promise of a date with the prettiest Swedish girl in town probably gave him an inducement he'd gladly run a mile for.

Even then he wasn't too enthusiastic. He said he wasn't in top condition to run the mile, he'd rather run two miles, one of his favorite distances. He also said that his time probably would be in the vicinity of 4:10 or 4:12.

Insiders lifted a quizzical eyebrow at this statement, recalling that before his race with Gil Dodds last week in Los Angeles he "felt in his bones" that Dodds would win at two miles. In this race, he left the bespectacled, soft spoken Bostonian so far behind Dodds could have wired ahead for Hagg's finishing time.

Bum Rebellion Broken, But It's Newsom Who Goes to New Pastures

NEW YORK, July 15—With a quick dramatic flourish, President Branch Rickey has broken the great Brooklyn rebellion of 1943, reestablished Leo (the Lip) Durocher as manager of the Dodgers with full power and front office backing, and cast Buck Newsom all the way out of the National League.

For the unexpected, this new twist to the Flatbush Follies has set a new high in baseball for the year, not only ending speculation as to when Durocher would be fired but putting him in more solid than ever before and at the same time sending the club's leading pitcher to the St. Louis Browns.

A protesting, wailing Newsom swore he wouldn't report to the Browns and screamed that he was being made the goat in shenanigans that all but disrupted the club, but he will go west or get out of baseball. Fritz Ostermuller and Archie McKain, a pair of aging southpaws with a record of one win between them this season, have been crated and sent on to the Dodgers in exchange for the man whose suspension last Friday led to yesterday's developments.

First Rickey announced that Durocher had not resigned, as he had been threatening to do, that he would not resign and that if he tried his resignation would not be accepted.

Confidence Expressed
As the head of the Dodgers he spoke full confidence in his manager, amazed reporters stalked him about his house where he has been resting off an attack of indigestion. They had gathered, they thought, to learn that Durocher had been fired in keeping with the presumption that his club had got beyond his control.

Rickey then put the clincher on later in the day by announcing that the much-travelled Newsom—the Doolittle of the baseball map—was on his way again, back to the Browns where he has tarried briefly before his wanderings from club to club.

As a kibitzer without portfolio, I'd like to suggest that Rickey has done a fine and noble thing. You don't have to have anything against Newsom to feel that Rickey had to let one of them go and it was high time he asserted full confidence in Durocher who seemed to have been re-hired this season by surference.

Durocher insisted that Newsom refused to pitch to instructions and on top of it that strike of

HOLTZ AND TEAGARDEN

Lou Holtz, the dialect comedian, will pay a visit to the "Paul Whiteman Presents..." program, starring Dinah Shore on Sunday, July 18, at 8 p. m. over NBC. In the alumni spot, Paul Whiteman has invited one of his most successful musicians to appear—Trombonist Jack Teagarden.

Holtz, who recently starred in the New York stage show, "Priorities of 1933," has a brand new collection of tall tales to try out on "Pops" Whiteman and Dinah Shore. Both Whiteman and Dinah have their doubts as to the authenticity of some of Holtz' yarns and are spreading the rumor they intend to "gang up" on the comedian when he starts to recite his latest adventures.

Jack Teagarden has a particularly warm spot in his heart for "Pops" Whiteman. Jack and his brother, the late Charlie Teagarden, both played with the Whiteman band years ago when they were embarking on a musical career. In fact, one of Teagarden's earliest jazz classics was recorded with the Whiteman band when he and his trumpet-playing brother were featured on the hit tune of the day then, "Tee-A-Muggin'." The record today is a collector's item.

BORIS KARLOFF

Boris Karloff, the big boogie man of the fillums, will be Groucho Marx's hair-raising guest in "Blue Ribbon Town," on Saturday, July 24, at 10:15 p. m., over station WBNS. Visiting Groucho at 33 Blue Ribbon Lane, he'll ask permission to bring along some of his friends (or is that word spelled friends?) and thereupon leads in the most gruesome accumulation of zombies ever to hit the kilocycles.

BRADY AND COMPANY

Fred Brady, his little brother Orson (Dix Davis) and his colored maid Beulah (Marlin Hurt) go on a good old-fashioned picnic, when the Fred Brady Show airs on Thursday, July 15, at 7:30 p. m., over station WOOL. Fred wants to impress his girl, Clara (Shirley Mitchell) but ants and other antipicnic forces have a few things to say about the impression he makes. Meanwhile, Bonnie Lou Smith, tall auburn haired songstress direct from the Ken Murray "Blackouts of 1943," will be guest vocalist and with her pleasing contralto voice will sing "Let's Get Lost," in a special Gordon Jenkins arrangement. Jenkins has prepared another special orchestration, of the old Cuban favorite "The Peanut Vendor."

"STAGE DOOR CANTEN"

Bette Davis, the young lady who uses Academy Award Oscars as door stops; Bert Gordon, the Mad Russian; Helen Menken, air and stage actress; Barry Wood, the Treasury troubadour; and the Double Daters, unique new swing quartet, form the varied company to be heard on the "Stage Door Canteen" Thursday at 9:30 p. m., over station WBNS. Miss Davis, who played the title role in the film version of "Elizabeth," the Queen," presents scenes from that motion picture, and compares notes with Miss Menken, who created the role in its stage version. Bert Lytell is the program's officer-of-the-day, and Raymond Paige conducts the Canteen orchestra.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Jimmy Blair will be missing from "Basin Street" this Sunday because the program will use two guest stars. However, the popular ballad singer returns the following Sabbath, July 25, with more of his romantic crooning. Recent polls list Blair with the three top ballad singers on the air. The other two are Dick Haymes and Frank Sinatra.

There's a revival of interest by movie companies in film shorts based on radio programs. Among those receiving bids is the Wally Butterworth "Take-A-Card" quiz, heard Wednesday on MBS. If the deal is consummated regular contestants will be used instead of actors.

Circleville Postoffice On Way to First Class Rating

RECEIPTS JUMP TO HIGH MARK, HAYS REVEALS

Continuation For Next Half Year Will Assure New Classification

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT Increase Of $6,000 Shown Over Figures For Last Fiscal Year

Circleville postoffice is well on the way toward advancing to first class rating, the jump from second class being possible at the end of 1943 if postal receipts for the last six months of the year compare favorably with first half figures.

Postmaster A. Hulse Hays disclosed the office's continued increase in receipts Thursday when he reported that the fiscal year ending June 30, the first six months of 1943 and the month of June, 1943, established new records for all time for the office. "According to our records," the postmaster said, "new marks were established for the fiscal year, the first six months of the calendar year and for June. If these increases continue through the last six months of the calendar year we are almost certain to be placed in the first class division."

Nearing Goal

Postmaster Hays pointed out that if postoffice ratings were determined by the fiscal year instead of the calendar year the local office would be first class now, since the fiscal year ending June 30 brought a total of receipts of $44,934.06. A postoffice to make first class rating must reach $44,444.45, this figure being necessary to put the office above a $40,000 net receipt total. Mr. Hays said the government allows only 90 percent of the gross receipts in figuring net receipts for the year. In order to make $40,000 for the year the office must gross $44,444.45. Mr. Hays declared, "The $44,934.06 collected for the fiscal year would put the office above the required figure by nearly $500."

Gain Shown

The first half of 1943 is well above the first half of the 1942 calendar year, receipts totaling $22,510.61, compared with $18,874.35. Comparative figures for June show 1943 with $3,524.78 and 1942 with $2,775.97.

In addition to salary increases which would accompany advance to a first class rating, the postmaster pointed out that the advance would give the office more employees thus guaranteeing improved service and would add several other advantages which the office does not now enjoy.

The office is expecting the second half of the year to be a good one so far as receipts are concerned. Holiday mail going to service men overseas is expected to start moving through the office during the next few months. The government is urging parents and friends of men in service to start shopping now if their gifts go overseas. Early mailing is important. Last year mail to overseas stations kept the postoffice busy from September until the holidays.

COUNCILMEN AT CHILLICOTHE TO WEIGH CURFEW

CHILLICOTHE, July 14—Chillicothe is preparing to start consideration of a curfew law to be put in operation in an effort to break up increasing juvenile delinquency.

Conferences have been held between juvenile and police officials and it is believed likely that definite recommendations will be made soon.

Operation of the new curfew law sending boys and girls off Columbus streets not later than 10:30 o'clock began Thursday in Columbus. Parents are to be held responsible for their children, penalties being directed against them instead of the youngsters.

Circleville council will probably discuss the question at its meeting next week. Juvenile Judge Lemuel B. Weldon and Solicitor Joe W. Adkins starting a move toward passage of a curfew ordinance.

trum and started a Congressional probe of his accusers.

Now, his committee has gone one step further and has devised a system of trying to shut up any rebuttal from the Federal Communications Commission, so that only one side can be heard. (It might be a good idea for the public to remember this in reading news about the FCC investigation.)

HOW TO OPERATE

Author of the strategy of letting only one side of the news picture get to the reading public is Robert Humphreys of International News Service, acting as adviser to the Cox Committee. Humphreys wrote the memo for the committee, which was circulated to every member by its counsel Eugene L. Garey.

Salient portions of the memo follow:

"Decide what you want the newspapers to hit hardest and then shape each hearing so that the main point becomes the vortex of the testimony. Once that vortex is reached, ADJOURN."

"Do not permit distractions to occur, such as extraneous fuses with would-be witnesses, which might provide news that would bury the testimony which you want featured."

"Do not space hearings more than 24 to 48 hours apart when on a controversial subject. This gives the opposition too much opportunity to make all kinds of counter-charges and replies by issuing statements to the newspapers."

"Don't ever be afraid to recess a hearing even for five minutes, so that you keep the proceedings completely in control so far as creating news is concerned."

"And THIS IS MOST IMPORTANT: don't let the hearings or the evidence ever descend to the plane of personal fight between the Committee Chairman and the head of the agency being investigated. The high plane of a duly authorized Committee of the House of Representatives EXAMINING the operations of an Agency of the Executive Branch for constructive purposes should be maintained at all costs."

Humphreys' instructions have been carefully followed. The Cox inquirers have met for short sessions, then quickly adjourned before any member of the FCC could refute their charges.

Most Congressmen—and the majority believe in fair play—are getting more and more fed up with the Cox travesty.

Battle Decisions In Russia To Have Effect On Fathers In County

The struggle in Sicily, the air war over occupied France and Germany, efforts of Uncle Sam's flyers and fighters to slash Japanese power in the Pacific and courageous efforts of the Chinese to drive back Nip invaders all hold local attention.

But the herculean battle going on in Russia continues to hold the center of the stage so far as married men who have children are concerned.

Uncle Sam's draft officials have set up the Russian front as the barometer to determine just how many more men will be needed for fighting the war against the Axis.

If the Russians are able to hold the Germans on the present line, or if they are successful in launching a mighty counter-offensive that could drive back the forces of Hitler, then chances are that no married man who has children listed as dependents will be called on to serve in the army. On the other hand should the Germans be able to force the Russians into a new retreat, Uncle Sam is expected to dip into his pool of draft age fathers.

Senator Robert Reynolds of North Carolina, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, is authority for the statement that "as Russia goes so goes Uncle Sam's draft."

Reynolds said Wednesday that the "real key to the drafting of fathers is found in the Russian situation. If Russia holds or drives back the Axis the pressure is eased. But if the Germans gain, our strategy must be revised accordingly. Decisive action on the Russian front, one way or the other, probably would have more effect on the draft situation than any one development," the senator said.

Right now the Russian situation looks pretty good.

So far Pickaway county Selective Service headquarters has not received any orders from state or national headquarters to prepare to draft fathers.
